

N J Myhill Architecture - Privacy Policy

---

Under new General Data Protection Regulations (GDPR), this statement sets out how the information we collect from you in the course of our business will be processed, stored and passed on.

Your personal information in the form of names, property addresses, telephone numbers and emails addresses as provided by you will be used in the form of business related correspondence and drawings created on your behalf and distributed in pursuance of statutory consents.

Your data may also be used to make enquiries to other professionals and organisations regarding their services which may be needed in the course of making planning and building regulations consents.

On completion of projects your data may be stored for future marketing of this business in order to retrieve and refer to archived project information should the need arise, but will never knowingly be passed on to others without your prior consent.